This cat that's stuck halfway out of the hole always runs to me when I come home from work. Odd for a cat. Her name's "Moto-kyu." Don't be lulled into a false sense of security by her cuteness or she'll bite you and ask for food. She's my entertainment while I'm drawing Muhyo.

Bureau of Supernatural Investigation

Vol.2 Premonition

Story & Art by Yoshiyuki Nishi

The Story

Toru Muhyo and Jiro Kusano practice magic law at Muhyo & Roji's Bureau of Supernatural Investigation. Magic law is a newly-established practice for judging and punishing the increasing crimes committed by spirits; those who use it are called "practitioners." Muhyo, widely regarded as a genius, attained the topmost of the five ranks of magic law, "Executor," at a young age. Meanwhile, his assistant Roji remains at the lowest rank, that of "Second Clerk." Things at the office are business as usual until Muhyo and Roji receive a late-night phone call from pianist and former child prodigy Aya Shiratori asking for help with a spirit who appears at night and plays her grand piano. Muhyo sentences the spirit, a manifestation of the envy Aya's audiences felt for her, but oddly, the spirit doesn't attack Aya herself. Muhyo's suspicions are confirmed when they find the flyer Aya used to contact them. On the flyer, the symbol for magic law is different than normal: the white and black parts of the symbol have been reversed. This inverted mark is the sign of a betrayer—a clear sign that this case was a setup. The target wasn't Aya, it was Muhyo, and Muhyo has an idea who was behind it: a man named "Enchu." But who is this Enchu, and why is he after Muhyo...?

Jiro Kusano (Roji)

Assistant at Muhyo's office and a "Second Clerk," the lowest of the five ranks of practitioners of magic law. Roji cries easily, is meek and gentle, and has been known to freak out in the presence of spirits. Frustrated that he always seems to be getting in Muhyo's way, Roji has devoted himself to studying magic law. Likes: Tea and cakes. Dislikes: Scary ghosts and scary Muhyo.

Kenji

Troublemaker who wrecked Muhyo and Roji's office sign because he thought they were a sham. But ever since Muhyo and Roji rescued him from a marauding ghost, Kenji seems to have taken a liking to them and often finds excuses to hang out at the office.

Dramatis Personae

Toru Muhyo (Muhyo)

Genius elite practitioner of magic law, one of the youngest to achieve the highest rank of "Executor." Always calm and collected (though sometimes considered cold due to his tendency to make harsh comments), Muhyo possesses a strong sense of justice and has even been known to show kindness at times. Sleeps a lot to recover from the exhaustion caused by his practice. Likes: Jabin (a manga). Dislikes: Interruptions while sleeping.
